However, once you have used these links to leave our Website, you should note that we do not have any control over that other website. Therefore, we cannot be responsible for the protection and privacy of any information which you provide whilst visiting such sites and accept no responsibility for them or for any loss or damage that may arise from your use of them. You should read carefully and agree with the terms and conditions of third party websites before using them.

How We Use Cookies

We collect information automatically about your visit to our Website using cookies. Your use of our Website is your consent to our use of cookies. If you do not consent to our use of cookies on the Website, you must stop using the Website.

AMLS sends cookies to your computer from the Website. Cookies are pieces of information that a website transfers to your computer's hard disc for record keeping purposes. Cookies can make the Internet more useful to you because they contain information about your preferences on particular websites, which allows website owners to provide more useful features for their users.

Some of the cookies we deploy are essential to make our site work. Other cookies we use help to improve the site content for visitors by showing us how you use our site and also helps to re-target you with promotions when visiting other sites or platforms.

Types of cookie:

There are two types of cookie which we use when you navigate any of our online areas.

Session Cookies – these will be stored on your computer or device for as long as your browsing lasts and is deleted once the browser is closed. These cookies can also be used to validate security or confirm when you are logged in to a secure area.

Persistent Cookies – also known as stored or permanent cookie, these are stored on your computer or device until it expires or when the user deletes it. These cookies are used to re-target products to you on other websites or platforms such as Facebook. They can also be used store preferences when logging on to our website

What These Cookies Are Used For And How We Classify Them?

The International Chamber of Commerce guide to cookie categories details four categories as follows:

Strictly Necessary – These cookies are essential in order to enable you to move around the website and use its features, such as accessing secure areas of the website.

Performance – These cookies collect information about how visitors use a website, for instance which pages visitors go to most often, and if they get error messages from web pages.

Functionality and profile – These cookies allow the website to remember choices you make (such as your user name, language or the region you are in) and provide enhanced, more personal features.

Targeting – These cookies are used to deliver adverts more relevant to you and your interests on other sites as well as ours. They are also used to limit the number of times you see an advertisement as well as help measure the effectiveness of the advertising campaigns

Below is a list of where the cookies our site deploys, or related pages on other platforms, come from and how they can be classed:

Where do our cookies come from?

Cookies left by our website - Strictly necessary, Performance

Google Analytics - Performance Google

Adverts - Targeting

We don't use the data gathered through cookies we directly deploy to contact you via post, email or phone.

Information about you is stored in the cookies, which can be accessed whenever you visit that website. Should you wish to refuse to accept cookies or restrict the data that we collect through our tracking software, you can alter your cookies setting in your browser. However, if you choose to alter your cookies setting in your browser you may be unable to access parts of the Website.

If you wish to find more information on cookies then visit www.aboutcookies.org. This site details how you can manage and remove cookies through different browsers. It also carries general information about cookies, how they are used and what for. Mobile users should consult their phone manual or manufacturer website for more details.
